How to Brown Hair Without Detection

Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Tint Hair Stain Can Be Applied in a Few Minutes Every Month.

There is a way of staining gray, faded or bleached hair any shade desired, from a beautiful rich brown to almost black, so that it is difficult, if not impossible, for even experts to detect that the hair has been treated in any way.

This preparation has the tremendous advantage over hair dyes of containing no silver, sulphur, lead or other poisons which invariably cause hair-falling. It has no odor, no oil, no sediment and no grease, and does not rub off on the clothing. It makes the hair grow out fluffy and luxuriant. A liberal amount as a laboratory trial package of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain, together with a booklet on hair, is sent by Mrs. Potter's Hygienic Supply Co., 1829 Groton Blvd., Cincinnati, Ohio, in plain, sealed wrapper, if you will send twenty-five cents in stamps or coin, and if it is desired to continue the treatment, full-sized packages may be obtained at drug or department stores for one dollar a package.

It is applied in a few moments with the comb, and it stains the hair evenly, from tip to root. It produces any shade desired, from a beautiful, rich brown, to almost black, for even experts to detect that the hair has been treated in any way.

One bottle of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain can last a year.—Advertisement.

FEDERALS TO MOVE ON BORDER POINTS

Claim Dimension in Rebel Ranks in Sonora Will Make Mexican State Comparatively Easy.

Sonora's border ports which are now in control of the state troops are to be retaken by the federal army, which will send columns against Nogales, Agua Prieta, Naco and the smaller ports, federal recruiting agents in El Paso, Douglas and Nogales, Ariz., have announced.

The rebel cause is losing ground daily, both in Chihuahua and Sonora, they say, due to the conflict of authority among the leaders. The time is right, these recruiting agents say, for a concentrated movement on the federal army.

A column over the old trail by Ojitos, by which the Geros revolutionists entered Sonora, will be one attacking force, and Gen. Ojeda will cooperate by sending a part of his column toward Nogales, Son.

The recruits which are being enlisted for the federal army on the American side of the line are expected to reinforce the federal army from the interior, should an attack be made on the border ports this morning. It is hoped to cut the rebel source of supplies and leave them stranded in the interior.

GEN. STEEVER RETIRED SEVERAL MONTHS AGO

The name of Brig. Gen. E. Z. Steever, for two years commandant at Fort Bliss, was not placed on the retired list Wednesday; he retired several months ago for disability. Had he retired on the active list of the army, he would have retired yesterday by operation of law, as he was 64 years of age on Aug. 18, but the war department ordered him before a retiring board last May and retired him at that time on the ground that he had poor eyesight. Col. Hugh L. Scott, Third cavalry, was nominated brigadier general in place of Gen. Steever and was confirmed by the senate. Until Gen. Steever was retired, Gen. Scott could not have been promoted except by special act of congress, for there just so many positions of brigadier general in the army and Gen. Steever was filling one of these.

FEDERAL SOLDIERS TAKE SADDLE HORSE FROM PIGG

Federal soldiers went to the distillery of W. A. Pigg, just beyond the Mexican Central railroad roundhouse in Juarez and took a saddle horse. He has made complaint to the federal authorities in Juarez about the seizure and has also taken up the matter with the American consul.

NO REPORT AT PORT BLISS OF CAPTURE OF 25 MEXICANS

TRAINS LOADED, WAIT IN JUAREZ

Several Reasons Are Given for Delay in Sonora Will Make Mexican State Comparatively Easy.

The Mexican Central trainmaster said Friday morning that there was no intention of running the troop and provision trains out of Juarez for the south until Sunday at the earliest, and perhaps not until Monday. He says that the troops are waiting for their money from Mexico City.

A telegram announcing the payment of $300,000 gold to Gen. Francisco C. Tro, in Juarez, is expected daily by the federal banks from the New York banks. This amount has been sent to New York by boat from Mexico City and will be wired here at once to be taken to Chihuahua on the train, after the federal troops in Juarez have been paid.

The pay of the volunteers in Juarez has been reduced to one peso a day since the money shortage has occurred, and many of them are quitting, to work on the American side.

FEDERALS ACTIVE IN SINALOA, MEX.

Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 22.—Federals who are 1800 strong in the state of Sinaloa, announced that they will take the initiative at Pecos and San Blas advancing from the city of Mazatlan and will control the state in 30 days.

Daily skirmishing is being engaged in between federals and rebels, led by former governors Riveros and Espinosa, according to a letter from an American at Mazatlan.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 22.—Roy Gross, aged 22, and an unidentified woman are found dead today as a result of a fight. Gross was dead when found. The woman was unconscious and died several hours later.

There have been recently five or six attacks by rebels on Sinaloa (town) but the garrison of 500 federal troops, it is claimed, routed the rebels each time.

THE MANICURE LADY

She Discusses Signs With the Head Barber and Does Not Believe Them.

By Wm. F. Kirk
"I WONDER if there is anything in signs this season," said the Manicure Lady. "All the bad luck signs has failed on me lately, George. Things is so rosy that I am all the time looking for the Woolworth building to fall right on me and me alone. I never seen the time when so many things broke right all at once, and that right in the face of a lot of hoodoo signs."

"It comes that way sometimes," said the Head Barber. "I didn't see any hoodoo signs at all last week, and everything broke wrong. Two skates that I bet on got the blind staggers, and the misbegotten got the quinsy and the kid caught it from her. I don't believe in signs."

"I used to," said the Manicure Lady, "but it's getting so I ain't superstitious, too. Yesterday our biggest mirror broke up at the house. It wouldn't have broke, only Wilfred was trying to show father how to box, and the old gent threw science to the winds and cut loose with a haymaker that drove my poor brother through the looking glass in the hall, the one Ma and Mayme and I always stands in front of to see how we look to go out for the evening. That was a broken looking-glass for fair, but it didn't bring no bad luck to our household."

"And Wilfred walked under a ladder yesterday when he was looking up at the clouds to get the inspiration for a poem called 'A Cloudy Day in August.' There wasn't any comeback on that, either. I fussed a little last night when I seen a cross-eyed woman in the subway, but nothing came of that this far. I guess the poor thing got cross-eyed looking two ways for a seat. I am as happy as a humming bird, and nothing has happened to ruffle my feelings. I haven't heard a single guy that came in here all the forenoon say 'I should worry.'"

"The old gent says that everything equalizes in this world. He ain't like us young folks, George. Every time that we see three or four happy days in a row we begin to think that we are going to be like the lilies that toil neither do they spin, yet Sullivan in all his glory never had no better clothes than them. The old gent says that he never puts himself on the back for having a little run of luck, because he has been too long in the league to think everything in life is roses and sunshine. He says that we all ought to consider the wallows that is in store for us and act kind of calm even in the moments of our easiest going."

"I don't agree with your father," said the Head Barber. "Lots of times I think some people has a right to be swelled up. They have money and social position and all that. Some of them is even kings. The rest of us have got to grub along and be common people."

"Father would be awful pensive if he knew you didn't agree with him," said the Manicure Lady. "But the old gent is funny about social position. You see, George, when father had a lot of money he used to mix up with the swells, and found out that there wasn't as much gold in their hearts and heads as there is in the hearts and heads of his regular pals. I kind of like him for it, George, whether you do or not. He never says much about his friends, but you bet they are his friends, and he would break a deal with King Alfonso of Spain to go out to the ball game with Bob Kiley. "But that ain't what we started to talk about. I was saying that signs can't amount to much, or I would be setting here now making a holler about something. Well, for the love of Paddy! Gee, George, somebody has took my pocketbook! Oh, Gee! It musta been some dip on the Subway. Gee, now I've gotta be superstitious again!"
